043 is correct. Jasper's location was formerly a smorgasboard or buffet style restaurant in the mid 1970's. Personally, I much preferred the buffet over Jasper's. Just as i much preferred Bray's 101 diner over the mediocre and boring Good Earth.

It's true that I have met a lot of good kissers here. But, then, I haven't been outside the area all that much, and when I did go I took an A-1 SB kisser with me. (Chuck Airey, wherever you are, you could have taught classes on the subject.)

The rest is a bunch of twaddle. SB is what you make it. I see by this thread there are more than a few guys who have suffered rejection. Look to yourselves, gentlemen.

We changed over to Verizon and wow! Never a problem since here in the SY Valley.

OP here. Thank you all for the great recommendations! I have looked in to the thunder jacket and am thinking about getting it. Regarding my neighbors for those who have mentioned, the location of our house is far from others if that makes sense. We technically only have one close neighbor. In addition, I try to bring her in when she barks. For the poster who said I tolerated this for 5 years, I did not. This has become an issue in the last year. I assumed it was the people and dogs approaching the fence. I posted because it's been oddly excessive the last two weeks - the turning point being her sitting inside, with me, barking. I have been a dog owner for almost 30 years and this is the first time I've had this issue. Again, thank you for all the kind responses!

Interesting that Bowman Motors is still in SB. Were next door neighbors in the early 1960s when we lived in SB.

Phipps' son was a classmate of mine at SBHS and lived in a house at one time on Verde Vista where we lived when we first moved to SB from Pacific Palisades.

(Best thing our father did was to get us out of the smog when I was 8 or 9!) He was born in LA and lived there all his life and realized what was happening to what had been a beautiful area...

Wish I still live in SB but had to move to Silicon Valley to get a teaching job...

2014-11-29 02:30 PM

Back in the mid-'60s, lysergic acid 25 (LSD) was new and not then illegal. Right before Christmas, my 20-something cousin was given several doses (to go) by his hideously irresponsible local psychiatrist. So one night right before Christmas, my cuz and his friend, Michael, took strong hits of the acid and decided they wanted to go for a drive and look at the holiday lights. I of course wouldn't let either of them drive, so just to shut them up, I loaded them into the back seat of my Ford convertible and off we went to see the State Street Christmas trees.

Even though it was bitterly cold outside and starting to drizzle, they insisted that I put the top down. As we cruised State Street at all of 5-10 mph, the two stoned clowns in the back seat kept up a running commentary about the lights, the window displays and the sound of the car's engine. It was a surreal experience, based on which I made up my mind that I was never going to go near any mind-altering drugs.

After going up and down State Street a few times, we went home and Frick and Frack both went to sleep. A couple of days later, our next-door neighbor drunkenly ran into one of the State Street trees, taking out the left front fender of her Pontiac.

Good times!

It's been at least a year since one unfortunately named car dealership was mentioned on an Edhat thread, so in case anyone's forgotten, we've got to give a shout-out to Boner & Haley Motors, a used-car agency on Chapala Street—even though it was actually pronounced "Bonner & Haley."

In the 1950s and '60s, there were a lot of European car dealerships. Thos. I. Petersen at 36 State Street sold Rootes Group cars from England, including Hillman, Sunbeam, Humber and Singer, along with Fiat, Lancia and Alfa Romeo; Phipps Motors at Carrillo & Bath Streets sold exclusively BMC (later British Leyland) vehicles, such as MG, Morris and Austin; and several smaller dealerships introduced the Santa Barbara motoring public to marques such as Peugeot, DKW, Auto Union, Renault, Simca, Borgward and Citroen.

Trivia quiz: Q: Name the automobiles you can't buy in Santa Barbara today because there are no local dealers.

A: Chrysler, Dodge, Jeep, Fiat, Subaru, Mitsubishi and Kia. And if no one takes up the slack When Hughes Automotive closes, you'll soon not be able to buy a GMC or Buick here, either.

(As a matter of fact, a former next door neighbor turned every large mature tree into a small box or ball and was awarded for this butchery. All the plantings suffered from 'can't touch each other!' as well.) I'm hopeful that native, appropriate, respectful of the environment and the plants work will increasingly be their criteria for awards. Regardless, it is wonderful to have an organization encouraging people to care about what our environment looks like.

Yes! Of course State was wider with parking on it so there was room. I think it went from Victoria to Ortega. It looked great !

SB & TAHOE: Right you are, Fazio's was where Gelson's is now. The building started out life in the mid-late 1950s as an A&P supermarket. Somewhere along the line it also became something called (I think) McDonald's Shopping Basket or some such, and it was an Albertsons before becoming Gelson's.

954: Nice as defined by whom? Certainly not the neighbors who are dealing with the negative impacts. Look how close this is to the residential areas of Providence Landing/Vandenberg Village. Word has it that you can hear the noise in some of the residential areas. Did anyone require an environmental review on this? This is an excellent example of poor planning and incompatible land use. And now they want to put in a drag strip along the river not too far from this.

But JW's right, those guys are not cadets, they're in uniform and are apparently SBSO deputies... 'police practice' indeed.

A little off topic because it was a grocery store, not a discount store, but I remember Fazio's, and I think it was where Gelsons is now. Also I remember Blue Chip stamps and S&H green stamps and the place to redeem them was on Las Positas and Modoc Rd next to the Mobil gas station.

As several posters have said, Fed Mart ended up with both the Hollister / Storke location (and none of the shops in the row between Saigon Noodle house and Cajun Kitchen were there except for a Fed Mart tire and battery shop) AND the south Fairview location that became the postal sorting and distribution center until one was purpose built in a formerly empty field (actually a sliver of it was the back of Delco's parking lot) on Storke next to Zizzo's which was formerly a gas station and car wash, then a drive in restaurant and car wash.

Also, don't confuse fed mart which was a general discount department store with fedco which was the membership only discount store where Mr Price got many of his ideas for Price Club. Nearest Fedco was in Van Nuys on Raymer ave and membership was originally only for federal government workers, then later broadened to federal contractor employees.

Some of you negative folks should keep in mind that some of us derive our livelihood from the cruise ship industry. This industry not only provides our jobs but also jobs at the local stores and restaurants we all shop and dine. In addition the jobs at the stores and restaurants the tourists patronize when they visit.

Some of the other big Southern California discount houses (but not in SB/Goleta, of course) included White Front, Zody's, Gemco and FedCo.

And speaking of the FedMart on S. Fairview, you'd buy something and then drive around to the back of the building to pick it up at a loading dock, kind of like you do now at OSH with larger items. Also, there was a super-nice sales associate named Marie who worked in Major Appliances at that FedMart, and she was so friendly and popular that you'd never think of going to another salesperson.

All those receipts are coated with BPA (bisphenol-A), an endocrine disrupter. Called "thermal paper receipts," they come from ATM machines, cash registers, gas stations. Even airline tickets are coated with BPA.

Use of hand-sanitizer and lotions has been shown to increase the absorption of BPA, when thermal paper receipts are handled. Don't touch your lips after handling these receipts and don't put them in your mouth, either.
